challenges ahead Toronto's Core Service Review

By Colin Hughes, SA Board Chair

Scarborough Arts receives City of Toronto funding to help make the arts accessible and affordable where they are not otherwise in our communities. The City's funding support provides a financial base that assists with day-to-day operating expenses. From this base we lever more in other donations, grants and resources from many program partners and volunteers to create arts opportunities after school for children and youth, community workshops and festivals, and events around various arts endowment awards established by Scarborough residents.

There are challenges ahead. The City had an operating budget surplus last year but is now projecting a $774 million deficit prior to other revenue offsets going into 2012. So it is about to carry out a Core Service Review (CSR).

The CSR will inventory services; define which are legislated, core and discretionary; consider public interest and policy factors; compare them with other jurisdictions; and rank services for "reductions and discontinuation" to "generate cost savings in 2012 and beyond." In addition, the City will look at other efficiencies, and, all user fees – including rents, recreation programs, admissions, daycare, library, and permits – to determine which will have full costs recovered or be exempt, and to identify "additional opportunities" for user fees.

Toronto has a mixed system of delivering key services in partnership with community-based organizations. The City's community grants create efficiencies because organizations lever

Can you think of a reason to donate to Scarborough Arts?

You know, things like...

...we serve a tremendous diversity of communities...

...we value collaboration...

From April 15 to July 23, we're raising funds so that we can keep bringing artists to the community and community to the arts. As a not-for-profit organization that offers free programs and services, we rely on the support of our donors. Your donation will have real impact on real people here in Scarborough, and will help us continue to offer great events & programs.

Not convinced? How about this: our Executive Director Tim is having a baby this month and, sooner or later, that baby is going to need to have a new pair of shoes.

Visit www.scarborougharts.com for more reasons, or to submit your own. And, of course, please donate!

April 21, 2011: Over 50 artists, community members and representatives from arts and not-for-profit organizations gathered at AccessPoint on Danforth to participate in Bridging the Gap. Co-presented by Neighbourhood Arts Network and Scarborough Arts, Bridging the Gap included presentations and a lively discussion about how to strengthen artistic links between Toronto's inner suburbs and downtown core. Many ideas were proposed, including facilitating transportation and providing opportunities for exchange across neighbourhoods, and we look forward to seeing how this important discussion evolves. additional resources and citizen participation. Per capita Toronto lags behind Montreal and Vancouver in these investments.

Public consultations on the CSR will be in May and June and be completed by the end of June. Public deputations will occur at Standing Committees in July and in early September at the Executive Committee. The CSR goes to City Council in late September.

Scarborough Arts has a duty to the community we serve, our Membership, and our program and funding partners to participate in the CSR and speak out on the excellent value of community arts programming. We encourage all Members and supporters of community arts to make their voices heard in the City's public engagement process. For more information contact your City Councillor (find your member of Council at <http://app.toronto.ca/im/council/councillors.jsp>) or contact Scarborough Arts.

malcolm leach: the next chapter

talented artist turns lifelong love into career change

By Patrick Connors

Malcolm L. Leach was born in Barbados, West Indies. In school, one of his majors was art. He created many watercolour advertising posters for the entertainment industry.

Leach immigrated to Canada, where for many years art became a second priority to his studies in Technology, including mechanical design at Ryerson University. He worked for many years as a mechanical engineer technologist.

Moonlit Wonder

His interest in art was renewed when he completed studies in Mark and Image, colour and art history at Sir Wilfrid Laurier University toward a Bachelor of Arts Degree between 2002 and 2005.

Presently, Leach is a member of Scarborough Arts, The Art Guild of Scarborough, and Cedar Ridge Creative Centre. He is also the owner of Malks Art Services Ltd., providing a variety of displays and rentals to customers.

He keeps a list in a folder of where his various paintings have gone. "World-wide," Leach said proudly. "I try to let the community understand my art. While I do sell my work, it has also served me well as wedding gifts, in return for Christmas cakes, for all special occasions.

"I have such great encouragement from local artists in Scarborough and Markham which keeps me going, but also the inspiration of people like Doris McCarthy; I recently attended her gallery at University of Toronto, Scarborough Campus, just before she passed away at the age of 100.

"Art is a gift from God."

His painting 'Amongst the Trees' is a Canadian wilderness scene, with a grove of evergreen trees surrounding an Inukshuk landmark. "I painted this from memory, to capture the feeling, and I find the Native symbol very inspirational."

Leach has appeared at many exhibitions over the years, including the 2006 In Your Face exhibition at the AGO, which received consideration from the Guinness Book of World Records as the largest collection of portraits ever assembled. "But the one which stands out for me the most is the Art for All Canada exhibit at this past year's CNE. Over 3 million people passed through during the period of the Exhibition."

'Moonlight Wonder' was inspired by his Caribbean upbringing. "For this I won the Special Merit Award from The Art Guild of Scarborough," he told me. "It has to be professionally juried just to even be in the program.

"The trick is to catch the light just right in it, also when I photograph my finished work (as he does with so many of his pieces, especially those he sells and gives away)."

On February 10, 2011, some of Leach's new work will be up for jurying by The Art Guild of Scarborough, followed by an exhibition in March.

From May 31 to July 26, his exhibit Enjoy The Work, through Scarborough Arts, will be featured at Cliffcrest Library. From September 26 to November 28, "Different Surroundings" will take place at the massive Agincourt Library.

Malcolm Leach went from success on the technical side of the working world and fulfilled his lifelong dream to be a professional artist, also making it productive from a business standpoint. One can only wonder what he will next accomplish as he creates his next chapter.

Amongst the Trees

eccentricities

April 2011 featured one of the most spectacular SA juried shows to date. 67 artists were featured at eccentricities, an exhibition celebrating the quirks of the artistic spirit. The opening reception on March 31 (shown in photos below) featured a packed house and an awards presentation. Photos by Kat Rizza.

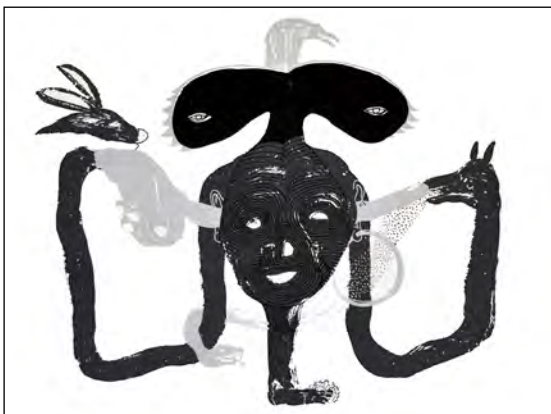

The show was held at the beautiful Papermill Gallery (Todmorden Mills, 67 Pottery Rd), March 31 - April 17.

SA member Malcolm Leach (centre) & friends.

SA Program Coordinator Benedict Lopes addresses the crowd. Congratulations to all involved on a fantastic event!

DID YOU KNOW...

...that there is a park nestled in a small corner of the Scarborough Bluffs in Birchcliff Village? It is called Rosetta McClain Gardens.

No matter what the season the gardens offer something to inspire you. In winter, there are the ruins of a house, in spring the flowers begin to bloom, in summer there are the beautiful colours of the roses and in autumn the monarch butterflies arrive.

Why are the gardens so inspiring? Perhaps it is because the owner Rosetta McClain wanted to share the property with others. After she died, the property was donated to the city. There still is a part of Rosetta McClain in the Gardens through the ruins of her home and the pet cemetery. The gardens were special to her and now they are special to us.

How will Rosetta McClain Gardens inspire you?

PLR

By John Jansen in de Wal

I've written a story
slaved, sweated in glory
wrote maybe a book
in dank writer's nook.

All over the nation
appeared my narration
on library shelves
portraying my elves.

For people to read
without money need.
For me at such station
there's no 'muneration.

Readers get free
entertainment you see.
Then, out of awareness
came sense of fairness.

It came from afar
That word: PLR.
PL Rights that is,
a cheque you can't miss.

So thanks to whoever gave this endeavour.
Preventing clear theft

Now, if only some day
We're able to say
I have the right
to my copy: outright

I can go writing some more of my stories of yore because I'll be able since food's on my table

Continue my passion;
entertainment to fashion,
to give and to share
with all my heart's care.

Private Label Rights (PLR) is a license where an author sells most or all of the intellectual property rights to their work.
